Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, of the state supreme court, delivered David B. Evans into office as president to succeed Jere A. Wells, and heard toasts to the immortal memory of the Scotch bard, to the land of ber, by James Watt, sculptor. John McCrindle recited "Holy Willie's Prayer" with his usual effective delivery. The Burns Club quartet, Ed Bray, Hinton Blackshear, Ernest M. Brown and George Grant, with John Ness at the piano, sang several numbers. George G. Wallace, piper, did the pining honors for the heavier Arbers. George G, Wallace, piper, did the piping honors for the haggis, Ar-thur Craig sang a special number. Judge A. W. Cozart, of Columbus, delivered a few witty remarks, waxing serious long enough to recall the great deeds of a host of Scotsmen. The time-bonored Burns Club an-niversary menu launched the enjoy-able evening.

Gang Rulers Go Into 'Solitary' As Prison Clean Up Continues

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(P)—Fourteen hundred inmates of Welfare Island prison were forced to eat scanty and cold food, Commissioner Austin H. MacCormick disclosed today, while the other 200 cooked steaks and chops over blazing books from the prison library.

The new commissioner, driving ahead with his investigation that started with a surprise raid on the penitentiary, ordered steam tables built quickly so that all the prisoners could enjoy as nourishing food as the gang overlords who, he said, had been running the prison.

He stopped virtually all communication with the island, held the prison "favorites" in solitary confinement, placed drug addicts in the hospital, and kept at his cell by cell search that netted additional narcotics and weapons.

MacCormick said he would make, an independent inquiry into prison onditions. United States Attorney Martin Conboy conferred with Frank L. Igoe, supervising federal narcotic whether the federal government could take action on the discovery of quantities of drugs in vestigation." Saity-eight associates of Joie Rao, described as the gang czar of the prison, were segregated in cells with their leader, as were the subordinates of Eddie Cleary, head of another prison faction.

These men, MacCormick said, had enjoyed the run of the island, kept carrier pigeons, and lived comfortably in the prison hospital. An investigation.

Monkey and Parrot Save Pets From Fire Numerous lives were saved bebecause Ginger, ably seconded by Snake-Eyes, saw his duty and did Ginger is a 3-year-old monkey in a pet shop here. Snake-Eyes is a large green parrot.

Late last night gas collected in the pet shop stove and exploded, throwing live coals about the place. They burned into the floor and smoke began to billow up.

Ginger dashed madly about his cage, shrieking in monkey language. Snake-Eyes shrieked, too, but in English.

Snake-Eyes shrieked, too, but in English.

"Get out o' here! Get out o' here!" he yelled.

A passing patrolman heard the commotion and turned in an alarm. And so today numerous gold fish, birds, dogs and other inhabitants of the shop owe their lives to the two modest heroes.

tion was started to ascertain whether these gangs had acted as agents for the sale of narcotics to other inmates, and whether the pigeons were used to bring the drugs onto the island. Commissioner MacCormick, remaining in active command of the penitentiary, appointed Lazarus Levy, acting head keeper of the Rikers Island prison, as acting deputy warden. Levy replaced Daniel F. Sheehan, removed for neglect of duty.

Warden McCann, permitted to carry on routine duties, called Rao an influence for good in prison discipline. ion was started to ascertain whether

The red-haired firm is Velma Gresham, Inc., whose capital assets consist of the histronic ability of Miss Velma Gresham, now playing the leading role in "What a Man" at a San Francisco theater.

The former Memphis (Tenn.) society girl incorporated herself two years ago with five friends of her family investing $20,000.

She now makes her home in Hollywood, where she has played in several motion pictures. And, she hopes, she is headed for New York. After the most spirited debate of the convention, the resolution finally was referred to the committee on constitution.

The resolution, submitted by a local union at Westville, Ill., stated that officials of various branches of the U. M. W. It set forth that "the membership has shown by referendum vote that they are not satisfied with them and their services not desired any longer." The resolution then added that "these officials shall return to employment other than acting as official representatives . . . for at least a year."

FLORIDA RAIL SUIT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—(P)—The fifth United States circuit court of appeals has affirmed the dismissal of a suit brought in the federal court in the southern district of Florida by the bondholders against the trustees of the estate of the late wife of Colonel Robert W. Bingham, United States ambassador to Great Britain.

Mrs. Lilly Flagler Bingham, whose first husband was the late Henry M. Flagler, founder of the Florida East Coast Railway Company, died in 1917. The suit attempted to compel trustees of the estate to release trust funds left in their care, amounting to millions of dollars, to help the Florida East Coast Railway.

the convoking of the reichstag on January 30, the anniversary of his rise to power as head of the government, and marking his first anniversary of the founding of the "third reich" under the nazi party.

The "fuebrer," or leader, as Hitler now is known throughout the land, is expected to make one of his most important addresses on domestic and foreign policies to be pursued during the coming year, and to review achievements in the first year of his chancellorship.

The address in all probability will include specific references to Franco-German negotiations on armaments, and the question or discrimination in the transfer of cash abroad to meet interest payments on billions of dollars of foreign-held German loans.

The convening of the new all-nazi reichstag was regarded as a gesture chiefly designed to give Hitler a "sounding-board" for his statement of policy.

"Walmsley talks about fighting us. Why, he'll be trying to cry on my shoulder inside of a week. But there will be no quarter this time."

Walmsley, who earlier this morning took the first step to bring about the rate reduction by naming a commission to study the rate structure, commented:

"Senator Long is right in only one respect—there will be no quarter this time."

ANSELL AND HOLLAND REPRESENT LONG FOES NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—(4P)—1 The women's committee of Louisiana, headed by Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, today announced it had retained General Samuel T. Ansell and John G. Holland, until recently the senate's special investigator, to represent the committee in its formal contest before the senate seeking the unseating of Senator Huey P. Long and Senator John H. Overton, both of Louisiana, "We are prepared to push vigorously to a conclusion our contest against Senators Long and Overton, formally filed and now pending before the privilege and elections committee of the United States senate," Mrs. Hammond said in announcing the retention of Ansell and Holland.

The contest is based on the women's committee charges, that Overton was elected "by fraud" in 1932 and that Long's political machine was responsible for his election.

THE SOUTH IN THE LEAD.

Convincing testimony to the degree in which the south has reacted to the nation-wide improvement in economic conditions is to be found in the statement by General Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and Company, that business in this section is now better than in any other area in the country.

General Wood, who has for years been one of the ablest and bestposted business leaders of the country, bases his opinion of conditions in the south on a dependable yardstick—the growth in the size and number of orders received by the various branches of the tographers. He made it clear that he thought that the intrusive kind of hich he is the head.

REASONS In some respects it is the shrewdest strategy yet devised under the new deal. The charges of graft and politics made by the public works and civil works administrators against their outfits are notably unspecific. Public mention is given only in minor cases. Other more serious cases are supposed to exist but are not being advertised.

By Paul Mallon.

GRAFT WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 .- News readers must think

Washington has gone stark mad.

Here the administration is beating its breast and charging itself with corruption, graft and bad politics. And there is con-is for an administration to maintain it is purer than the driven snow, while congress throws soot wildly all around the place.

The change is startling, but not without reason. In fact, there appears to be a rather definite method behind this madness.

Nothing like that ever happened before. The normal procedure

gress vawning about it.

The breast-beating strengthens public confidence in officials at the top and frightens the petty grafters at the bottom. The activities of the petty fellows are hard to prove.

Also it takes the wind out of the sails of such republicans as Senator Arthur Robinson, who has been attracting attention by making similar charges against the administration.

That makes it about a 100 per cent logical democratic move. It is precisely the same strategy followed by Mr. Roosevelt in the budget. He made it look so bad that he left his opponents nothing to say about it.

CONGRESS The strangest aspect is the refusal of congress to start investigating all this graft. The explanation for that is the real meat in the coconut.

Congressmen live off the fat of federal expenditures. There is not a democrat, republican or moron in congress who wants to do anything to interfere with the distribution of federal funds to constituents in his home district. He wants his people to get all the PWA and CWA money they can. He will be the last one to rock the boat, while they are getting it.

That situation can be expected to continue so long as the money

RESULTS This underlying feeling is noticeable in senate and house debate nearly every day.

When the republican Robinson made his attack on federal ex-penditures, democratic Pat Harrison asked him if he was opposed to building postoffices in his home state of Indiana; if he wanted the CWA to allot less money for Indiana. The Hoosier avoided a direct answer by saying he did not wish to be diverted from his subject. Republican Representative Fred Britten (a big navy man) chided the democrats for expenses in the house this week. A baby demo-crat from Texas turned Britten around by asking if he favored smaller appropriations for the navy. Britten had to confess he did

The democrats seem to have the republicans just where they want them on the expenditures issue.

The corrupt dealing in relief expenditures seems to be no more, and probably it is less than was anticipated. Messrs. Ickes and Hopkins have the confidence of nearly every-The feeling seems to be general that if Ickes has erred in public works it has been on the side of too much caution. No one could spend all the money he and Hopkins are spending without victimized by undetected graft of a minor nature all along Reports indicate that state politicians, in some instances, have played politics with distribution of CWA funds. The method of distribution is so involved that there are more cases of absurdities than there are of graft.

In one instance a high school graduate in mechanical drawing received an architect's allowance from the CWA. He read the funny papers for several weeks until some one asked him to design something and then it was discovered he was not an architect. Also he had a letter from his senator which he used to get on the CWA pay roll in the first place.

MARKET The stock market boys have not been worrying very much about legislation. They expect congress will pass a simple general proposal for licensing exchanges under an indefinite federal overlordship.

Under that arrangement the exchanges themselves will be held responsible for protecting the public. The government would not try to make specific rules requiring so much margin, etc. Such legislation would probably bring very little, if any, change in the existing corrected rules of the New York exchange.

might force the little exchanges around the country to conform to New York corrections. That is one reason why the markets paid no attention to the news that the Dickinson market regulation report had been submitted to the president. Another reason was the tip that the Dickinson report would be submitted to the banking committee merely for its information, and not as an administration recommendation.

NOTES A southern congressman says he has received dozens of complaints from his constituents whose cooks, maids and chauffeurs have quit to work for the CWA. Some of the com-plaints stated that the CWA paid for quilting and such household

The treasury interest rate is going up as expected. It was 21 per cent in December, is now 21 per cent and will be higher.

The man who did most of the detail work in putting the deposit insurance scheme across was Walter J Owens, who has been in the treasury 20 years, although his name has not been mentioned in the publicity congratulations being handed around.

One thing about the CWA is certain, namely, that the $357,-000,000 doled out up to January 20 directly created that much purchasing power. (Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon.)

Deposits in the state banks of Geor gia increased more than $12,000,000 during the last six months of 1933, R. E. Gormley, state superintendent of banks, reported Thursday. Super-intendent Gormley added that all signs pointed toward an immediate return to normal banking conditions in the state.

Mr. Gormley's report showed that on June 30, 1933, shortly after the banking holiday deposits totaled $65,-750,000 and that they had increased to $77,844,000 at the close of the business day on December 30, the last banking day of the year. The superintendent showed that for the entire

Cash reserves appeared to be considerably higher, Mr. Douglass said, while the item of money owed by the banks showed a sharp decline during the year, though exact figures of this have not yet been compiled. ## Comment at the Capital

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Flotation of Largest U. S. Bond Issue in Peace Time 'Is Pronounced Success.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 .- Uncle Sam has crossed a milestone in the job of raising new funds by the sale of government securities. The new issue is a pronounced success. It is the largest single entirely a bid for new money-a billion dollars in cash. Earle Baillie, special assistant at the treasury department, worked out the details of the financing. promised the president he would get a billion dollars before he left office. For he has to leave in a couple of days because senators demanded his He once worked in Wall Street. And that's a crime nowadays, even if Mr. Roosevelt himself vouches for the character and integrity of the individual in question.

The financial program which Mr. Baillie devel-DAVID LAWRENCE. oped, and which has resulted in a huge oversubscription, took into consideration some very delicate questions of market policy in the pricing of government securities. Thus, last December the government floated an issue of 12-month notes and felt it was being generous in offering an interest rate of 22 per cent. Indeed, because of nervousness over the gold purchase policy, the treasury decided to take no chances and to make the issue so attractive it would be immensely oversubscribed. Well, these 12-month notes went above par and then, as conditions an indication that any new issues would at least require a 2½ rate or better. So the decision was made to offer them at 2½ per cent and lengthen the term of the notes to 13½ months, because anything that The treasury tried only a half billion of these 134-month notes this time and the other half billion was in seven-month notes at 11 per cent. So when the applications come in and are finally tabulated it will be interesting to see what the total demand was for the 13; month notes. If there are signs of a possible market for more of these, it will unquestionably result in the offering next time of notes of 18 months, or even two years, at an interest rate of close to 3 per cent or thereabouts, though, of course, such questions are not finally defor sale, as market conditions at the moment of offering have every thing to do with the rate of interest that has to be paid. The general indications, however, may be said to be favorable for a flotation that will take care slowly of the six billions of new money needed. The issue of last December required only $250,000,000 of new money, but this time $500,000,000 was asked for and has been obtained on the longer term notes. So progress is being made in grad policy. At the moment it means, of course, that Uncle Sam cannot borrow for longer than 131 months without paying a very high interest rate. This is due to the uncertainty over monetary reform and stabilization. With the gold bill unacted upon as yet by the senate, it is too much to expect any offering for longer than about a year or thereabouts from the treasury. Banks and insurance companies and other big investors flation.

Political observers saw in Hastings' speech some material which he and his co-workers will use in the November elections campaign. The Delaware senator laid especial embasis upon the secrecy with which to feel this way and whether the future issues will go as well with the public as those floated this week depends in no small measure upon how the spending program of the government proceeds. There still is a feeling that expenditures will never be permitted by public opinion and the president to get too far out of line to assure repayment out of taxes and miscellaneous revenues. On that assumption, the investing public is still betting that Uncle Sam will work his way out of the financial dilemma which the depression has forced upon us.

A slight reduction on lower comes was effected but those in the higher brackets were increased on a graduating scale. This change is expected to bring in $36,000,000 additional. Under existing rates the treasury estimated revenue from income tax in the fiscal year 1935 would amount to $1.265.000,000.

A flat 4 per cent normal income tax rate on net incomes—that is incomes after the deductions allowable have been made, according to whether a person is married and has dependents—of $4,000 was approved. This eliminates the existing 8 per cent levy on the second $4,000. Instead, a surtax beginning on net incomes of over $4,000 at 1 per cent, and graduating to 59 per cent on those and graduating to 59 per cent on those of $1,000,000 and more is imposed. The present surtax begins with 1 per cent on net incomes of $6,000 and ranges to 55 per cent on those of $1,000,000 and in excess, making the maximum tax 63 per cent.

Roosevelt, Senator Bankhead announced tonight his gin licensing plan of cotton production control might be scrapped for legislation to place a prohibitive tax on excess baleage.

Under the new plan, a tax ranging upward from 10 cents a pound would be placed on all cotton sold above an allotted amount for each farm.

Bankhead said he would press for immediate action on this compulsory baleage control.

It was expected the administration would support the tax plan if a questionnaire being sent to cotton farmers proved they wanted the rigid control. Secretary Wallace decided to poll the farmers after attending a hearing before the senate agriculture committee on the Bankhead bill which embraced the gin licensing plan.

Bankhead said his brother, Representative Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, would introduce the revised bill first on the house side, since all tax measures must originate in the house.

Representative Bankhead accompanied the senator to the White House, where they studied cotton legislation in detail with the president.

Under the tax plan, the secretary of agriculture would estimate the market demand for cotton each year and a certain number of bales would be allotted each farm on the basis of previous production or estimated production if all the acreage were planted to cotton. All cotton sold in excess of the allotment would be taxed at a prohibitive rate.

Senator Smith, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, said today he was certain the demand in the south for compulsory action looking toward reduction of cotton production grew from a desire by cooperating farmers to discipline those who were not participating in the voluntary acreage control program.

AMERICANS ASSAIL REICH BOND POLICY 3

British Holders of German Securities Also Present Protest in Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 25 .- (UP)-Forcefully worded protests against Germany's discrimination against American and British holders of German long-term and medium bonds, running into billions of dollars, were handed Reichsbank representatives today at a meeting of Germany's creditors called to bolster the reich's shaky credit structure.

In the absence of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, Vice President Fritz Dreyse presided.

The meeting was secret, but the United Press learned that both the American and British representatives of their investing publics at home lodged bitter protests against the Reichsbank's "deals" with Holland and Switzerland.

lodged bitter protests against the Reichsbank's "deals" with Holland and Switzerland.

The Reichsbank agreed to make interest payments in full to these counfries in return for trade concessions. It was believed a similar "deal" was desired with both Britain and the United States, the bank using the lever of its own debts to pry trade advantages out of creditors, rapidly despairing of collecting their investments in full.

Dr. Schacht, reported absent in Silesia, called today's session to see what arrangement could be made. He decreed last month that for the first six months of 1934, cash transfers on interest payments would be cut from 50 to 30 per cent, osentsibly to protect the German mark.

In the interim, protests became so vehement that both the British and United States goverments stepped in to support their respective bondholders. United States Ambassador William E. Dodd entered two formal protests at Wilhelmstrasse.

The British threatened semi-officially to collect a full 50 per cent by sequestering part of the funds paid to Germans for exports shipped into Britain.

Do You Know As Much As Your Cat?

She's a knowing cat. She asks for little-just her meals, a saucer of milk and a place in the sun. She gets plenty of sleep and exercise. She never worries, never frets. What is the result? Such vitality and resistance that we say, "Cats have nine lives." What does your cat do when she is not well? She ears carnip, if she can find it. She eats grass and certain green plants to which her instinct leads her.

Your cat takes herbs for a tonic. Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to your cat's health, has also provided the herbs necessary to your own well-being? You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are skillfully blended and compounded in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old fashioned tonic that will help to restore your strength and energy:

problems in bidding, and the catastrophes which follow in the wake of such holdings because the partners choose the wrong methods of exchanging information are among the greatest at the contract table.

H. J. Lewin, of Cincinnati, Ohio, recounts a rather harrowing experience which he had in a rubber game recently in his home town. His side recently in his nome town. It is sade was vulnerable and there was no score on the rubber game when his partner, who was North, opened the bidding with two spades. The East player passed, and Mr. Lewin looked at the remarkable holding below, opposite a forcing bid of two in a suit:

Hearts A 10 5 Diamonds A Q 10 8 6 4 Clubs A Q 5 4

Mr. Lewin remarked that it appeared to him that he and his partner held all the honor-tricks. Naturally, being void of spades he did not wish the hand played at that denomination so he responded to the opening force with a bid of four notrump, a quite conservative bid with his four honor-tricks. His partner then bid seven spades, which East promptly doubled. Mr. Lewin again paused and took stock of the situation. He reasoned that North must hold the ace and king of spades, the hold the ace and king of spades, the king and queen of hearts and the king-knave of both clubs and dia-monds, one of the latter of three cards certainty. He took out the spade contract with seven notrump, and when the dummy went down, it was resumably Sabino had some fuddled memory of this and so informed Bray, and, in advance of last Tuesday's seance in the Cresap library, Bray privily questioned Olsen and obtained from him confirmation of the fact of it, but for reasons of his own entirely suppressed it during the examination of the servants that afternoon. And presumably it also was while the barefooted Sabino was staggering and floundering through the lower part of the house that he heard Florence on the telephone trying to raise Gregory at the Hotel Algonquin and, far overtaken in alcohol though he was, somehow managed to store that in his brain and pass it along to Bray, who in turn and a little later, made it an integral prop of his hypothesis touching on Gregory's imagined complicity in the wiping-out of Uncas Cresap. Balancing these hitherto hidden revelations, I am beginning to understand certain matters which until this moment were—

6:32 P. M.—Florence has been caught! Bob Skipp, of the American, just called up from town to tell me. His office got the flash. She was caught less than an hour ago at a hotel in Tonawanda near Buffalo. She registered there late last night under an assumed name, Skipp says, telling the night clerk she expected a caller today. From then on she remained in her room. But a waiter, who served her at lunch, thought he recognized her from the description he had read in a morning paper. He took note of the initials "F. Immediately below that devilish caption and filling the sheet were coupled illustrations displayed side by side. Down a deeply-indented margin space, flanking the one on the left, thumbed a drooping sub-head which read: "Did Beautiful Florence Dane Hope It Would Be Like This?" And the accompanying picture showed, elbow high, a pair of smooth round arms, and on either arm ornately jewled bands were clasped, and the slender fingers were idly interlaced in what the model—or the photographer—must have fancied was a pose betokening complacent ease. And the companion picture had for its text: "But Did Trapped Florence Dane Dream It Might Be Like This?" And here repeated were those same two arms but now, instead of gemmed bracelets, handcuffs were locked on the slim wrists with the two clinched fists straining against that shameful bracketing, and between them, the short connecting links drawn rigidly taut. bracketing, and between them, the short connecting links drawn rigidly taut.

It was a puerile exhibition, altogether a childish thing to do, but in my futile rage I had to do something. So I tore the filthy rag across and my futile rage I had to do something. So I tore the filthy rag across and flung the pieces on the floor and stamped on them and rended them underfoot and wished it might be the face of the man who had devised this layout rather than his cruel handiwork which was becoming pulp beneath my grinding heels.

There, that's out of my system. I'll square.

The door opened for a space of inches, and in the slit, barring my way, stood a middle aged plain clothes man—Mc-Veigh, obviously.

Before I could speak he spoke: "Your name Redd?" "Yes," I told him and tried to get by him.

"Anything on you to prove it by?" he parleyed, still blocking me. I had Bray's telegram handy. I hauled it out. He gave it a quick glance.

There, that's out of my system. I'll go back to last night:

For nearly three hours after Skipp telephoned me, I cursed the perversity of inanimate things or the stupidity of human intermediaries, while I wasted precious time and fought a losing battle with complacent long-distance operators and professionally agreeable switchboard girls, trying to raise Bray at Riverhead or at Calverton or wherever else he might be. Either deliberately to clude me he stayed away from telephones, or he was moving too fast to be overtaken. Between spells of contending with blandly polite "centrals," I fairly sprayed his stamping grounds with duplicate telegrams in which I begged him immediately to wire me sanction to join Florence at that town of Tonawanda and to accompany her on l'onawanda and to accompany her on creature.

Tonawanda and to accompany her on the return trip.

It was almost 10 o'clock and by then I was ready for a strait-jacket, when this response came:

My rage threatened to suffocate me. I choked on my own voice, and my collar was all at once a garrote for my swollen throat, and why the veins on my forehead didn't burst I can't tell. They felt as though they were bursting.

York, where we are due to arrive just before noon.

I am writing this installment not because I am in any humor for writing, but because of the tonic need to occupy myself after some fashion while I go cityward to intercept, at some comparatively near-by point on the New York Central; the train that is bringing Florence and her two guardians from upstate.

I have just looked on a searing thing which set up a murderous gripting in every nerve plexus I own, so that each radiating ganglion seems to have a separate twitch of its own.

I had finished with the morning papers, finding in them nothing except what already I knew. At least I thought I had finished with them. But down at the bottom of the heap I came upon the Daily Pictograph. Flaring across the top-breadth of the fort page marched this most deftly alliterative, most diabolically deceptive screamer:

"Figitive in Fetter! Heiress of Slain Cressn Nahbed on Wild Flight."

At Harmon I had 12 minutes to wait for the incoming train. Even

And Another of the Caseys Struck Out---for Home!

DOVER HALL, BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 25.—It was a pointer named Nan and a right-handed pitcher named Hugh Casey, property of the Crackers, that caused it all.

I mean the sudden hiatus from Dover Hall's cool veranda with the great moss-hung trees in the foreground and the cool green of the pines beyond. Nan, the pointer, is a very fine dog and probably the best retriever in the world, although I know this will be challenged because every bird dog man will swear that his dog is the best retriever in the world and will spend hours proving his point. The fact that he never proves it to anyone but himself makes no difference at all.

But Nan, the pointer, will retrieve anything she thinks you want or have forgot. She often brings over the pants you had on yesterday or the shoes you wore last week, thinking you have carelessly forgot them. And once she brought over the pink underthings of the wife of a gentleman who was visiting here, dragging them across the ground to the lodge.

And yesterday Hugh Casey, the rookie pitcher who is expected to win some games for the Crackers this coming spring and summer, was hunting on the Dover Hall grounds some three miles from the lodge.

A large skunk suddenly walked out of some bushes and started for Hugh Casey. He spoke to it and urged it to retreat, but the skunk kept coming. And so, in self-defense, which is a plea any jury will sustain in the case of killing a skunk, Hugh Casey blazed away and killed the skunk. Now, Nan, the pointer, is a game dog. She will bring in anything the hunter kills, provided she has gone out with the hunter. And so, when Hugh Casey killed the skunk, she looked at him with reproachful eyes as if to say "what in the world did you do this for?" but she retrieved the skunk and started with it to Hugh Casey.

THE RETREAT OF THE IRISH.

Now, it is not often that one sees a man named Casey in retreat. People named Casey usually linger around to see what will happen when there is any trouble.

But as faithful Nan, the pointer, approached Hugh Casey backed away. Whereupon Nan began to trot. Whereupon Casey began to run. Whereupon Nan began to run, seeking to deliver the skunk.

This much is ahead of the story. We now drop back to the lodge where your Uncle Wilbert Robinson and a few guests were seated on the veranda contemplating the scene. It is a

The breeze from the sound, smelling of the ocean and the marsh, lulls one. One dozes, dreaming of tall sails and days on the Spanish Main when the tall ships of the Spanish privateers roamed past the Golden Islands of Georgia.

The long gray strands of moss from the trees, like so many false giant beards hung out to dry, toss in the breeze, making curious arabesques. It is all very quiet and very still, the ideal setting for contemplation. Although, if you suddenly ask someone what he or she is contemplating, there will be a start and they will be unable to answer at all. There is a firm belief here that there is no real contemplation at all, but only the perfect ease of a mind at rest.

Now and then Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson will say that the minds of visitors at Dover Hall do nothing but rest. But this is usually denied. Although not strongly.

THE WILD RETREAT.

It was upon this peaceful scene that suddenly there burst

There was a roar in the distant pines and from them burst the panting Hugh Casey. Now, the lad is in great condition. But running three miles through Big Buffalo swamp with a 12-gauge shotgun in one's hands is something else.

He sprawled over the fence and ran toward the lodge. Behind him came Nan, the pointer, the skunk in her mouth and a look in her eyes which seemed to say that this was the most curious hunter for whom she had ever retrieved game. Nan was running with the wind and the skunk's presence intruded itself before Nan reached the assemblage. The skunk, in death, was making a strong post-mortem protest at the treatment it

The crowd on the veranda suddenly quit contemplating the scene and rushed for the door. There was a slight congestion at the door, but they all got in.

And there was Nan, left alone with the skunk. She dropped it on the ground and stood over it, puzzled. She could not understand why her friends had deserted her.

It was about this time that Colonel Tillinghast L'Hommedieu Huston, director of the Crackers and chief adviser to Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, arrived on the scene.

The Colonel had been to a formal tea over in Brunswick, which is 15 miles distant, and was formally clad. He wore striped pants, a frock or preacher's coat, and on his head was an iron hat.

As he approached Nan, she grabbed her skunk again as if to say that at last here was an appreciative guy.

The Colonel has not sprinted in a long time, but this time he did a great job of getting to another car which was by then closer than his own. It looked for a time as if Colonel Tillinghast Huston might perish to death in the car of starvation or thrist. Because Nan kept waiting for some one who would accept her skunk.

But at last Lawrence, the cook, managed to take a long fishing pole and accept the skunk.

And so, we all returned to contemplating the scene. But there was an aroma which even the breeze from the sound could not wipe out.

"We will not need any cologne for a long time," said Wilbert Robinson, interrupting the contemplation. And we won't.

Business the crowd trails only with the winner. But that only sharpened the philosophy of the homely fellow with the scrambled features who's been "home folks" to everyone in boxing since he first gained the limelight.

"I'm glad I'm out of it while I still know east from west, and I don't hear bells that aren't ringing," he said. "I gave the fight game all I had and it gave me all I've got—$200,000 put away, an ornamental iron works in Duluth, a cigar store here, a fine home.

The bout, if completed, would be held in New York in late May or early June under the auspices of a local charity (Mrs. Hearst's milk fund) with Tom McArdle as promoter of record.

Tech Squad Shows Marked Improvement in Drills for Game.

By Jimmy Jones.

Atlanta's college basketball contingent, which is a sizeable one, incidentally, has become considerably interested in the fact that Georgia Tech's be-spangled young men of the court are showing noticeable improvement as they move along through the schedule leading up to the annual Southeastern tournament to be staged here February 23-27.

Frankly speaking, the Jackets of Roy Mundorff did not overwhelm anyone with their cleverness or goal shooting capacity in the home opener with Vanderbilt. But since that time Mr. Mundorff and his young men have put in a lot of manual labor at the Atlanta Athletic Club with a noticeable improvement.

JUST IMAGINE.

In spite of the fact that the Jackets were a trifle mild, not to mention a trifle wild, in dropping a 24-22 affair to Vanderbilt three weeks ago, they now rank fourth in the Southeastern conference standings with three victories against one defeat. And they made the Celtics hustle in the exhibition against that celebrated outfit here on January 17.

On Saturday night at the auditorium, which some with a touch of civic cynicism are choosed to refer to as "the barn." the Jackets will seek to fatten their average in the second of the annual three-game series with their arch enemy, the Georgia Bulldogs.

Tech's chances for this game should Tech's chances for this game should be very good, in view of its 33-25 conquest of the Bulldogs in the first of the series and the fact that Morris Katz, one of Coach Mundorff's most talented basket men, has returned to practice after missing the Sewanee ball uniform and there is nothing now for Mike to do until the Jackets start spring football work next Mon-day week.

LATE CURB RALLY REDUCES LOSSES

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(P)—Mild irregularity featured final prices on the curb exchange today. Trends were a bit mixed during much of the session, but a late rally reduced many of the losses.

Trading dwindled on the reaction but showed a substantial pick-up on the late recovery. Utilities narrowed losses of fractions to around a point. Electric Bond & Share ended unchanged after dipping a major fraction. Oils and metals showed minor recessions but alcohols improved, Hiram Walker advancing 2 points net.

Hiram Walker advancing 2 points net.
Safety Car Heating and General Tire & Rubber yielded 2 to 3 points in light sales. Dow Chemical, Swift & Company and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams finished steady to a little higher.
Transfers approximated 283,000 shares compared with 491,000 on Wednesday.

BOND LIST HOLDS IN NARROW RANGE

Daily Bond Averages.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(49)—The bond market shuffled about in restricted territory today and prices, generally, did not get very far in any direction.

Moderate declines and gains were shout even and the trading volume.

Moderate declines and gains were about even and the trading volume was sharply reduced. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was unchanged at 81.2 and sales totaled only $16,501,000, par value, against $19,711,000 yesterday.

United States government securities were virtually at a standstill in the listed section, which is usual following a large new government offering. Heavy oversubscription of the latest billion-dollar offering of notes and certificates was a foregone conclusion.

In the corporation divisions there were a number of scattered advances. The semi-speculative carrier liens, however, were inclined to sag under profit taking.

Among outstanding utility and industrial loans were American Waterworks 5s and 6s, up 1-14 and 2-14 points, respectively; Armour 5-1-2s, up 1; New Orleans Public Service 5s of 1952 and 1955, up 2-3-5; North American Edison 5-1-2s, up 2.

Strength of South American bonds was a feature of the foreign department.

EARNINGS OF G. M. C. SHOW BIG INCREASE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(P)—Net earnings of the General Motors Corporation for 1933, announced today by Alfred P. Sloan, president, amounted to $83,214,000, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $1.72 per share on the common stock. This compared with a net of $165,000, or 9 cents a preferred share, in 1932.

The company's fourth quarter was its worst of the year, due partly to halting operations which were affected by delays in getting the 1934 models into production. This quarter, however, as indicated by the reported nine months' figures, showed a net profit of $1.804.206 against a deficit in the same 1932 quarter of $10.390, 196.

Mr. Sloan explained that the 1933 net was after providing for depreciation of real estate, plants and equipment, amounting to approximately $30,100,000 for possible losses on impounded cash balances in closed banks.

pounded cash balances in closed banks.

The company's preliminary figure for cash, United States government and other marketable securities at December 31, amounted to $177,000,000 compared with $172,780,695 at the same time in 1932. Preliminary net working capital totaled $244,000,000 against $225,437,194 at the end of the previous year.

In 1933 General Motors' dealers in the United States delivered to consumers 755,778 cars and trucks compared with 510,060 in 1932, a rise of 188 per cent. Sales to dealers in this country were 729,201 units, against 472,859 in 1932, an increase of 54 per cent. Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, aggregated $69,035 units, an increase of 54 per cent over 1932 volume of 562,970.

Gold withdrawals from the bank during autumn, said the report, caused a loss of only 6 per cent of the reserves, leaving the gold coverage in France on December 23 at 78.86 per cent. It estimated that hoarders held 25,000,000,000 of gold during 1933.  The report pressed for a reduction of the public debt and the lightening of the burden on private industry in order to help economic recovery. # STRESSED BY FRANCE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Philip Morris
Consolidated, Inc., a holding company, reports net earnings of $248.204 for 1932, equal to 32 cents a class "A" share, compared with $415,173 or 67 cents a share in 1962.

L. B. McKitterick, president, said business of the Consolidated Tobacco Company, Inc., most of whose stock is owned by Philip Morris, was "considerably reduced" last year due principally to cigaret price reductions and consequent shrinkage in sales of 10-cent brands. The latter, he thought, should benefit by the recent advance in higher priced brands.
